

Warn draft registrants over 26 years

Cook County Selective Service Board No. 1 issues a warning this week to registered men, regardless of their age that the "war is not yet over." The board is passing on to the public a bulletin issued by Paul G. Armstrong, Illinois director of selective service, that applies to registrants between the age of 26 and 37. R. M. Utpadel, chairman of the Arlington Heights board, says, "Any man under the selective service who leaves his present job must report to the board any change of status that might affect his classification. Failure to do so subjects him to possible federal prosecution and imprisonment. We are instructed to make sure that registrants comply with their legal obligations." The bulletin from the state director reads as follows:

Registrants ages 26 through 37 years who feel that the new liberal selective service regulations permit them to leave jobs in agriculture or in essential activities in order to take jobs in non-essential activities are likely to find themselves classified as available for induction, it was announced today by Colonel Paul G. Armstrong, Illinois director of selective service.

"Every registrant who is occupationally deferred," stated Colonel Armstrong, "must remain employed in an essential activity in order to retain such deferment, and selective service regulations direct local boards to classify as 'available' all registrants who quit essential activities for jobs that make no contribution to the national health, safety and interest.

"It has come to our attention that some registrants—particularly those over 30 years of age—have the idea that there is no further chance for them to be drafted and are consequently leaving farms or essential jobs for higher-paying positions which mean nothing to the war effort. Such action makes these men liable for induction into the armed forces—regardless of their age. Even in cases of men who have previously been rejected by the induction station, waiver of defect can be requested and possibly granted by the armed forces.

"Registrations require that registrants ages 26 through 29 years be in essential activities in order to be given occupational deferment. Registrants ages 30 through 37 years need only be 'regularly engaged in' (employed in) such an activity to warrant deferment."

132 awards given to Arlington boy scouts

The largest number of awards ever given out at any local Court of Honor were presented at the Court of Honor held at the Field House, before a large crowd of parents and friends, last Thursday night.

Hume Young and Kenneth Gronert received Life Scout badges from their dads, which award is the next to the highest award made in scouting. Robert Blackburn, William Lasley, and Robert Mook received their Star awards, which were presented by their Scoutmasters, according to Scout tradition.

The meeting opened with a group of camp songs led by Martin Freeman, accompanied by Les Griffith at the piano. A very interesting talk by Mr. Leadbetter, engineer from Wheaton, covered the making of model gliders and planes. Several beautiful models were displayed and glided in the course of the program. Mr. Leadbetter emphasized the importance of commencing with gliders, in the study of airplane design, before the boys should attempt to use gasoline motor models.

Many of the local scouts are leaving for camp July 1. An announcement was made that, due to a special arrangement, there is still room for a few more scouts during the scout camp period this summer, so that any boys who may have failed to secure a reservation should now promptly inquire of his scoutmaster.

Those receiving awards in various classes were the following:

To the People of Arlington Heights:

We are in search of help in this Fifth War Loan drive from every possible source. We haven't as yet scratched its surface. A very heavy quota has been assigned to the Arlington Heights Trade Area. Not a single citizen should be content until he knows that his duty has been fulfilled. See the Committee - phone the Committee - TALK to the Committee - PLAN - THINK - and WORK until the job is done. Make full use of the Red, White and Blue stickers. You folks in any way affiliated with corporations can be useful. Speak up; probably a plan can be worked out that will be of help. We have over 8,000 people in the Arlington Heights trade area. When the Roll is called next month the answer must be right — you want to be a proud citizen of a community that has done its part. Be active and be posted. The War Finance Committee appeals to you for whole hearted co-operation — plus. Let your home pride come to the front.

5th WAR LOAN COMMITTEE.

Must register this week for summer play

Program for recreation gets under way June 28

Registration for the recreation program will continue at the field house through Friday. Children who want to play in the park this year are urged to sign up before activities are organized.

The boys program will be run on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays from 9-12. The girls program will be on Tuesdays and Thursdays on the same hours. Tentative plans for the season are to offer as many activities as possible to all children registered in the program. As near as possible the program will follow the desires and interests of the children.

The story telling hour will be held at the South school on Wednesdays from 10-11:30; and at the park on Thursdays from 10-11:30. In case of rain the group will move into the field house. This program will begin June 28-29. Ages for this group will be from four years and older.

All boys and girls who register for this program should meet at the park field house next Monday at 10:30 a. m. when A. H. Seidler and Mrs. Morrissey will explain season plans.

State to change 3-State Highway thru Stonegate

Citizens of Stonegate are rather jubilant these days. They have received assurances that the Tri-State highway, originally laid out fifteen years ago to pass through the center of that subdivision, will be rerouted to the east of that community. State engineers are reported to have prepared maps showing the new location of the state highway.

Harvey Adams, representing the Stonegate Community Club told the good news to the village board at its meeting Monday night. He promised that photostatic copies of letters he had received on the matter would be sent to the village.

Alderman Adam suggested the advisability of purchasing a street sweeper which would mean a better job and a saving in present labor costs. The board took the matter under consideration.

The need for the creation of the post of a "city sealer" in Arlington Heights in order that trucks taking loads out of Arlington could carry a certified weighing slip was presented to the board by Alderman Kehe. Mr. Kehe and Attorney Thal will report on the matter at the next meeting of the board. Chief Richard Jahn appeared before the board asking for action on the acquisition of a chassis for the 500 gallon pumper that was given to the village thru the O.C.D. The pumper has been stored in the Village hall but does not mean added fire protection to the municipality unless it is mounted on a chassis.

The engine with ladders and hoses supplied to the village at no cost to the municipality are worth about $1,800.

Y., on the North American.

Slow start in Arlington bond sales

$313,000 is Arlington Heights quota in the 5th war loan drive. The sales the first week were $27,000 less than either Mt. Prospect or Palatine. "This does not mean that we are not going to make our quota," stated Chairman Arthur Franzen Tuesday morning. "It means that we must work a whole lot harder."

A number of the captains and salesmen did not receive their supplies until last Friday and no report has yet been received from them. Co-chairman N. Latoff is certain that next week's news will be a whole lot better. The accompanying open letter is addressed to all citizens of the Arlington Heights trading area.

H. C. Landeck, veteran Lutheran teacher retires

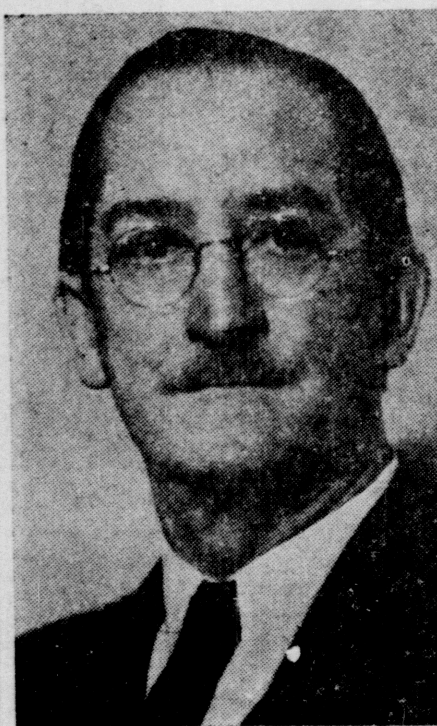

At the close of the past school year Mr. Herman C. Landeck retired from active service, after having taught in Lutheran schools for 44 years.

Mr. Landeck was born in Hamberg, Minnesota, 68 years ago. After graduation from the Lutheran school in his home town, he attended the public high school in St. Paul, Minnesota. Professional training for the career of a Lutheran teacher took him to Concordia College, Milwaukee and to Concordia Teachers College at Addison, Illinois. From the latter school he was graduated in 1900. He took post graduate courses at the University of Nebraska.

Mr. Landeck's first teaching position was at Lincoln, Nebraska. In 1908 he accepted a call as principal of the Lutheran school in Rock Island, Illinois. He came to Arlington Heights in 1915 and took charge of the school of 180 pupils. A nervous breakdown caused Mr. Landeck to relinquish the arduous responsibilities of school leadership after 20 years. Since 1935 he taught in the primary grades of the school.

Mr. Landeck was very active outside the school room. He organized and led church choirs and young peoples societies in Lincoln, Rock Island and Arlington Heights.

Music was not only a hobby, but a distinct asset to Mr. Landeck's career. He began the study of music at the age of five, played the organ for church services at eleven, led a choir at sixteen, and directed a band at eighteen. Mr. Landeck was the organizer and conductor of the Arlington Heights town band for 15 years.

In recognition of faithful services rendered for 29 years, St. Peter congregation voted Mr. Landeck a monthly gratuity. His former pupils, fellow teachers, and a host of friends wish him many years of health, rest, and security.

64 cent want-ad sells $725 car

Selling a car at a cost of 64 cents was the record last week set by one of Paddock Publications want ad page advertisers. The advertiser, hailing from Des Plaines, listed a $725 car.

"Money order for 64 cents enclosed to cover recent ad. I had several inquiries from this ad, and am pleased to report one of your subscribers in Prairie View purchased the car. Your paper certainly brings results."

The above letter speaks for itself. How about your car? Tired of trying to operate on two gallons a week?

List it next week in Paddock Publications, 1200 servicemen subscribers probably won't buy it, but one of the other 8,000 subscribers will.

300 scouts vie for awards at 1944 camporee

Over 300 Scouts from 54 patrols camped at the 1944 Camporee of the Northwest Suburban council held at Camp Dan Beard. The program opened with the check-in at 2:00 p. m. Friday and continued throughout the week end until noon on Sunday. The rain early Saturday morning served to test the Scouts' camping ability.

The Friday night feature was the Night Commando trail. During Saturday morning the Scouts participated in a physical fitness test. On Saturday afternoon the Camporee events were compass, water boiling, signaling, string burning, knot tying and first aid. There were many visitors in camp Saturday evening, watching the Scouts prepare and serve their meals.

Capt. George E. Nightingale was the featured speaker at the Saturday night camporee, holding his audience with stories of his experiences in the North woods. Following the church service on Sunday morning, Park Ridge Air Scouts put on a model airplane demonstration.

The First Aid station was maintained by Troop 10 of Barrington throughout the camporee.

The camporee ratings were based on personal, campcraft, scoutcraft inspection and participation in the night commando trail and three of the camporee projects. The ratings are: A, 800 to 1,000 points; B, 600 to 799 points; C, 400 to 599 points. The patrol ratings follow: Troop 7 of Arlington Heights, Skunk patrol, A; Flying Eagle patrol, 2; Troop 9 of Palatine, Wolf patrol, A; Troop 22 of Mt. Prospect, Explorer patrol, A; Wildcat patrol, A; Panther patrol, A; Troop 32 of Arlington Heights, Bobcat patrol, A; Hawk patrol, A; Tiger patrol, A; Troop 33 of East Maine, Eagle patrol, A; Indian patrol, A; Troop 36 of Prospect Heights, Eagle, Vampire and Wolf patrols combined, A; Troop 37 of Arlington Heights, Flying Eagle patrol, B; Cobra patrol, B; Owl patrol, B; Troop 38 of Orchard Place, Fighting Wolf patrol, A.

In case of rain the dinner will be served in the church assembly room after a regular morning worship at 10:30.

You are invited to bring your family and guests and come to this carefully planned and much looked forward to event.

Tax deadline is next week

There are only a few more days for taxpayers of the country township to make their tax payments to the local collectors.

The penalty date for the first installment and personal property is July 1st at the county building.

The township collectors will close their books early next week and make their return to the county treasurer.

Many city people who own property in the country have been coming out to pay their bills to the town collectors in preference to waiting long hours in line at the county building as some of their neighbors have had to do in paying their Chicago bills.

The last few days rush at the county building is bound to be terrific. Run taxpayers can avoid all that by making their payments quickly and in comfort to the local collectors.

The dead line is near for the first installment and personal property bills so anyone who hasn't already visited his home town collector, should do so at once as it's the last call.

Penalties of 1% per month are added after July 1st to all first installments and to personal property tax bills.

The response of the property owners to the pay at home campaign has been splendid and there are still a few days to "get under the wire."

"White Collar" soldiers return home with aches, pains

Geo. K. Voltz and Glen Benson, who spent three days at Camp McCoy where they were soldiers for a day, returned home Friday with their "discharge" papers, colds and many aches and pains.

"We would not have missed it for anything, but never again," says the president of Arlington Seating Co., as he hobbled to his car. Mr. Benson fared a little better and has only the cold. Word comes from Camp McCoy that there was no G. I. clothing to fit George who had to wear a pair of overalls.

"We saw everything but the WACS," says George.

St. John's annual picnic Sunday, June 25

The annual congregational picnic of St. John's Evangelical church will be held next Sunday, June 25, immediately after the 9:30 Sunday school services at the church. The picnic for which each family is asked to bring a basket of food will take place in the George Scharringhausen grove on South State road, with dinner served at 12 o'clock. At 1:30 a recreational program planned for all ages will begin. At 4:00 Rev. William F. Kamphenel will conduct an open air vesper service at the grove.

The general chairman in charge of arrangements for the picnic is Emil F. Baumgarten, superintendent of the Sunday school. Mr. Charles Vogel is chairman of the equipment committee, Mrs. Mary Duenn is chairman of the refreshment committee, Mrs. William Lauterburg of the recreation committee. All persons who have no way to get to the site of the picnic are asked to notify William Bleile, chairman of the transportation committee. His telephone number is 450.

In case of rain the dinner will be served in the church assembly room after a regular morning worship at 10:30.

Full program completed for 3-day event

Lieutenant Governor Hugh Cross will headline the patriotic meeting that will be held Tuesday evening, preceding the fireworks, as part of the Arlington Heights July 4th celebration. The Arlington event is held under the auspices of the Community Council. The receipts will be divided between the war memorial and the recreational fund.

The Council is presenting a three-day program, starting Sunday afternoon with a ball game when the Red Wings play the Glenview naval base. Tuesday afternoon the Red Wings will meet the Chicago Firemen in their annual contest. That evening a soft ball game will be played by the Cubs.

Special stress is being made on the patriotic meeting at 8:00 o'clock Tuesday evening. Gov. Green was first asked to speak but in sending his regrets suggested the lieutenant governor. This meeting will have a number of high lights, the details of which will be announced next week. Its purpose is a big patriotic demonstration on the Nation's birthday by the people of Northwest Cook County.

The newly organized recreation committee will stage contests Monday and Tuesday afternoons for which suitable prizes will be awarded. Activities on Sunday evening by this group will be confined to the swimming pool. A full outline of these events will also appear in next week's Herald.

Entertainment will be provided on Sunday by St. Mary's Training School Band and pupils of Mrs. Mitzlaff, and on Monday evening by three professional acts.

Hahnfeldt's orchestra, which is "tops" in the minds of a great many dancers has been secured for Monday and Tuesday dancing in the field house.

The Sky Wolves, which comprise a group of young people interested in the small model motor planes will stage an exhibition Tuesday morning following the parade. There will also be a contest for "fun-motored" model planes in which every boy is invited to compete.

A grand display of fireworks will top off the celebration Tuesday evening. This feature during recent years has attracted people from miles distant. The committee has been assured that this year's display will equal any shown in other years.

The above outline does not tell the whole story of the entertainment that awaits visitors to Arlington Heights during the three days, but they give a general idea of the efforts that have been put forth by the community council to make the 1944 event worthy of the great causes for which its net receipts will be expended.

Noted pastor to speak in Arlington Sunday

Arlington Heights ladies are especially fortunate having the opportunity of hearing the Reverend John J. Dussman M. A. in three successive lectures at St. James Church the afternoon of Sunday, June 25.

The educational and inspiring lectures will be at 1:30, 2:30, and 3:30, with fifteen minute intervals between lectures. It will be part of a Day of Recollection so called, a day devoted to the immediate and particular purpose of self advancement. In this instance the matter of possible improvement in which the ladies who attend will be empathically helped will be Christian Culture. Father Dussman defines the culture that is Christ as a happy, harmonious combination of all the qualities that go to make up the Christian lady or the Christian gentleman. You will be intrigued and amused no end with the treatment and development of this most fascinating theme. It will include thought-provoking considerations on such matters as genuineness of character, cultural appreciation, splendor of imagination and many other contributing factors to a full and a rounded life. Young or older you will have much to take away with you from these lectures.

Through the past seventeen years Father Dussman has been holding open forum sessions on campuses of state colleges all over the country; forums in which he accepts objections and questions from the floor pertaining to history, philosophy or religion. His lectures elicit the interest and presence of ministers and lay folk alike wherever he goes.

Father Dussman was an associate professor of DePaul University, teaching Ethics and Psychology. For five years he broadcasted twice weekly on Mindfulness of Others, a broadcast for shut-ins. Today he is pastor of the Catholic parish of Glenview and chaplain to Catholic men at the Naval Air Station there and Camp Skokie in Glenview.

There will be no charge for these lectures; a voluntary offering will be acceptable. All ladies, married and single, non-Catholic or Catholic, are invited to hear this noted lecturer. Put him down on your must list.

State fire school in session three days in Arlington

Over a year ago Arlington Heights Fire department filed a request with the state fire marshal's office asking that a three-evening fire school be held in that municipality. Tom Brooks and Ray Reich of the fire marshal's office were in Arlington Heights this week and conducted a school Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday evenings.

Chief Jahn forwarded an invitation to neighboring fire companies to attend, many of whom sent delegations to the event. Instruction at these schools is a short course of the big state fire school held once a year. They present an opportunity for all members of the local departments, whether an old timer or a young recruit, to receive instruction.

Pain in the abdomen

by C. W. LUSSMAN
of Sieburg Pharmacy

Thousands of deaths are recorded each year because that many persons ignored the stern warning of abdominal pain.

Either they ignored the pain or they resorted to self-medication. The earlier the doctor is called the better. Where an operation is indicated the chances for recovery are lessened with every passing hour of neglect.

Further, the surgeon's task is lighter, the operation is apt to be less tedious, recovery more rapid, when the doctor takes the case in an early stage.

A competent druggist is always the physician's aide.

Arlington 'Cards' lose to 'Yanks'

The "Yanks," Carl Schurz High school entry in the American Legion Baseball tournament defeated the Arlington "Cards" 8 to 6 in a loosely played game last Saturday. The Arlington boys showed the lack of practice with a resulting slump in both hitting and fielding.

Arlington was leading 6 to 4 going into the first half of the sixth inning when the "Yanks" coupled two hits with two walks plus an error in judgment to go ahead with three runs to win the game. The score of this game could have well been in favor of Arlington had the hitters been able to come through when there were runners in scoring positions. The hitting was weak with only five safe blows being made. Two each were made by Griffith and Robinson and Aldrich getting one. Robinson pitched only fair ball in comparison to the way he worked during the high school season. Even though several balls went for hits which would have been out with good fielding, his control was just enough off to cause him trouble.

The next game of the season will be played at the park on Saturday at 6 p. m. The opposition will be furnished by a team from Hermosa park in Chicago. This team, as are most of the teams in the league, is a representative of a Chicago High school. The "Cards" are out to prove that the class of ball as played at the local school is as good as that played in the large Chicago and Suburban schools.

Orchids to Miss Irene Russell

Friends pay tribute at testimonial dinner

It is Tuesday evening, June 20. We are gathered at the North side School to try to let a slender, silver-haired teacher know the living monuments that have been erected to her name, and the love and devotion which her adherence to the highest traditions of her profession has kept in the hearts of hundreds of her former pupils and colleagues. Orchids to Miss Russell!

Mrs. Raymond Atkinson has introduced the toastmaster, clever, dignified Dr. B. T. Best, who has known the guest of honor for many years, whose son, Lieutenant Richard Best, was once in her school room.

Then Mr. B. A. Noyes, president of the Arlington Heights school board when, in 1918, "it was moved and seconded that Miss Irene Russell be engaged to teach grade two for the ensuing year," talks of her understanding soul and reads a letter of tribute from his daughter recalling the piano playing and the nature stories of Miss Russell. She has written of the teacher's respect for the individual make-up of each person she knows —a trait which is one of her most commented on virtues. Mr. Noyes said "Miss Russell did not bob her hair, and she spent her week ends in Arlington Heights."

Mrs. H. Collignon stands to tell of her gratitude for having been a student of Miss Russell's. Her arm is around her young son Jerry who also had that privilege.

Mr. C. E. McWharter, who, as a member and president of the school board had worked with Miss Russell for twelve years, says that she has lived her belief that "it is more blessed to give than to receive," and tells of the hundreds of her friends who have benefited by that belief. "When Old Friends Get Together" his remarks are titled.

Mrs. Rex Volz's "Mama Joins the P. T. A." follows the acknowledgment of Miss Russell's years of patience and consideration in dealing with members of P. T. A. here from the time of its beginning with 62 members to now when its membership is 385. Mrs. Volz praises Miss Russell's "glorious sense of humor" and presents her with a large book containing the signatures of countless friends.

In her rich low voice, Miss Barbara McWharter sings "Homing" and "Neath the Southern Moon."

We are all amused and entertained by Miss Dorothy Sodt's "One School Marries to Another." She reads "The Parable of A Grade Teacher." We all think we'd like a copy of it.

Arlington Heights' elementary school superintendent, Mr. R. E. Clabaugh reminds us in his "A Stranger Meets A Friend" that Miss Russell "has not yet bobbed her hair and that she still spends her week ends here." He describes what he calls the beloved teacher's "outlook of youth" and says she has always been concerned with whether things "make sense" more than with the fact that they "have always been done that way." He is happy with the rest of us that the school system here will again have Miss Russell's inspiring presence when she takes up her duties as librarian in the fall.

With unceasing emotion Miss Russell pins on her soft blue dress a giant double orchid, the gift of Mr. Neal Laurin, another of her boys. One of the Williams twins, Bob, has presented it. His entire family is here. Bob's "Orchids to You" keynotes the spirit of the evening with its sincere well chosen words. We are delighted with his imitation of Miss Russell's "Rikki Tikki Tavi". It has been mentioned twice before tonight. Miss Russell's pupils have all been unforgettably introduced to Kipling.

A few of the many letters addressed to Miss Russell are read by Mrs. Atkinson. They have come from everywhere and the esteem in which their writers hold Miss Russell and the inspiration which she has been and is to them has almost made poetry of them. As the final tribute of the occasion Mr. Nathaniel Carlson, former school board president breaks a life-long antipathy by boyishly presenting "An Apple for Teacher". Attached to it is an envelope containing a check, material attempt to reveal the feelings of its donors. Mr. Carlson's wish for health and happiness and his eulogizing "very well done" is echoed in the minds of everyone at the tables.

The guest of honor stands. We look at her, at the soft gray crown of unbobbed hair, at the sweet sensitive face, at the lovely deep eyes, at the hands, trembling slightly holding the "apple for teacher". She reminisces a bit, thanks us, sits down.

During the good dinner the beguiling words of love and good wishes have buzzed at the tables, at the speakers table where in front of Miss Russell is Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Laurin's gift of yellow, white, pink and red roses before tall white candles, at the other tables where pretty bowls of purple spiraea stand. We have talked of how good the dinner is and of how well Mrs. Leslie Moodie, its general chairman and the past presidents and the present president of P. T. A. have arranged the program, of how nicely the high school girls have served. But the talk keeps coming back to Miss Russell, the musing, lingering "remember whens", the joy that she will still be with us, the comments about how pleased she is when "her boys" come to see her, the recurring amazement at the number of people to whom she has given so much.

The dinner is over, but we still talk in little groups, some of us who know Miss Russell but by reputation listen, others speak in glowing sentences of her beautiful life of service. Almost every-

Just Around the Corner

By Eleanor Milstead

There's an ache in my writing arm and a couple of hitches in my head so if this column is a little upside down and backwards, don't blame the publishers. I just will stand in the sudden delicious cool wind when I'm all hot and sticky.

My article on the Christian Science Society of Arlington Heights goes to their board for approval this week and should be in print next Thursday.

For five years my husband and I kept a joint diary. It was such a help in figuring out when a visit to the dentist was due, when the bedroom curtains were last washed (if ever) and if the milk man had been paid. But as I look back over it, it seems far too personal with only a note here and there commenting on world affairs or anything outside our immediate household. June 16, 1940, big Ken wrote "Paris has not yet fallen, and we all pray that it will not." Such reversals history makes! On June 19 I wrote, "The King and Queen of England are in Washington—much to do," and on June 10 I had written, head-line-wise, "Italy Declares War on Allies."

Most of the pages are filled with new recipes, "bringing up Kenny" and gardening and vaccinations and Ken's trips to Washington, refinishing old furniture, buying shoes, visiting the zoo, first teeth and things that happened at the Food and Drug office. Anyway, it gives us perspective to look back on "just every day" in the Milstead family. We've come through some dark weeks and some very bright ones. Maybe its "ordinary" hours that we will wish, in our dotage, to remember after all.

A book which has straightened out my confused thinking many many times is Harry Emerson Folsick's "The Meaning of Faith". It is one of those books which I often reach for and find gone because a friend has also discovered its philosophy to be one that answers countless questions.

Speaking of books, I honestly think our Arlington Heights Library can furnish one for every need—if I could only stay away from the children's corner long enough to look.

Christopher Kent recently decided his tadpoles would have a better chance in life if he returned them to their original home. The home was almost dried up, however, so he brought them back to his house again with a little extra slime to see if that was what ailed them. It really is most distressing to witness the death of some little creature you've taken the responsibility for.

I certainly hope some of these women who are so emphatic about calling a 11 antique ridiculous junk will back up their view points with letters to the "Life with Mother" column in this paper. But,

War is heartless, little man. It doesn't give much heed to family ties. But, along with millions of other men and women in uniform, your dad is doing everything he can to keep another war from starting when you're grown up and have children of your own.

Candlelight prayer service Sunday at St. Peters

St. Peter's Lutheran Church will hold its third candle light prayer service next Sunday evening at 7:30. As before parents and wives of service men and women will be guests of honor and occupy seats in the center downstairs section. Church members in uniform at home will be asked to light the candles on the V shaped frame at this increasingly popular ceremony and the public is welcome to attend.

Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Adam were among the many friends who went to Barington Sunday to greet Rev. and Mrs. J. H. Ellerbrake on their golden anniversary.

The Arlington Heights Nurses Club met Friday evening at the home of Mrs. Wilburn Hartmann.

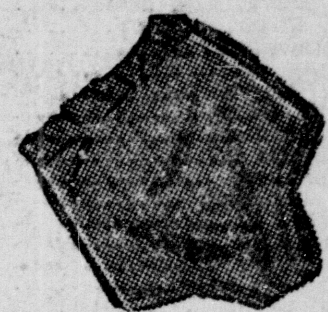

Mrs. Nels Olsen of South State Road who has been quite ill is so much better that she has been able to be outside during the last few days enjoying the sun.

Mrs. Gerald Morrissey, who has been ill at home, is better now.

one goes to shake her hand and wish her well. She knows, being great in character, that the words and sentences inadequate as they are have about them a genuineness and depth that mirror the real affection and "God bless you" they try to tell.

Dr. E. C. Farnham of Los Angeles, Calif., was a Sunday overnight guest of the Hausams.

... This is North Western's
JAKE KLIMO

Over in Mt. Vernon, Iowa, Agent Klimo is the man who looks after things for "North Western." Jake is never too busy to be courteous—never too pressed to do his share in war bond purchases—never too tired to devote some of his leisure time to music.

Like so many "North Western" men and women, Jake is a heavy war bond purchaser. Now that the 5th War Loan Drive is on, he's investing in extra bonds—to him the slogan "Do more than before" means just that.

Jake is a father of fighters, too. Son Bob, a chief mate in the Merchant Marine, has sailed the seas to five different continents. John, formerly with the Chicago Symphony, is in the Marines. And Claude, now in New Jersey, finishes Officer's Training this month.

Jake's music activity includes managing Mt. Vernon's Municipal Band and playing the tuba in the El Kahir Temple Band.

"North Western" numbers its "Klimos" by the thousands—families that fight and will continue to fight—that buy bonds and will continue to buy them. They reflect the spirit of America.

"THERE'S ONE JOB YOU MEN WON'T BE ASKING BACK AFTER THE WAR."

Elaine Kehe writes poetry

Fourteen year old Elaine Kehe, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Kehe, 300 West Fremont, Arlington Heights, has a philosophical mind. Recently she has written some poems, two of which the club editor heard comment about and asked Elaine to send to her. The following one, entitled "Picture," despite a natural immaturity of style and choice of words shows an adult perception unusual in so young a poet.

It's just a perfect moonlight night
The sky is studded with the stars,
The air is crisp and cool and light
And waves dash high o'er ocean bars.

That is the picture we have here
But way way out across the seas,
Are those we trust and love so dear
But with them blows no cooling breeze

With them a war must be won
Ruthless and cruel in every way,
Often takes lives of daughter or son
Not all who fight on earth can stay.

Some must die for the things they love
Others come home to a peaceful scene,
To enjoy the things they treasure above
Beauty, love and kindness serene.

Mrs. Figaro from the city is homemaker for Stephen Lobojo and Bob during her daughter's absence. Mrs. S. Lobojo will return this week from St. Francis hospital with her little daughter, who was born June 11.

Mrs. William Early and niece, Miss Dolores Baubien, from Milwaukee spent the week end with the Hammell-Kreft family, enabling her to spend Sunday with her father, Frank Kreft. Mrs. Early was Elsie Kreft before her marriage.

Mrs. Frank Risah of Great Lakes Naval Training station visited at the home of her sister, Mrs. Charles Heiss, this week.

Mrs. Paul Fairman and daughter were guests recently of Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Sachs who plan to go to the city Sunday to attend baby's christening.

Mrs. Anna Schwartz entertained a group of friends Saturday, observing her birthday season. Her children rallied round Sunday with greetings and gifts for the occasion.

Ronnie Nagel is a patient in Presbyterian hospital where he went last week for observation. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Nagel, 304 N. Douglas avenue.

Mrs. H. M. Blume spent Tuesday in Edison Park. She had lunch with her sisters-in-law, the Wieses Lydia and Carrie Blume.

Donald Peters had a welcome visitor Sunday when his friend Stevens Cogburn Eagar, spent the day with him and his parents. The boys were classmates and room mates when they were in Columbia university. When Don was injured and in a hospital they were separated. Eagar is at Great Lakes in submarine training. His home is in South Carolina and his mother welcomed Don when he accompanied her son home.

The Arlington Community Players, met on June 9 to elect officers and committee chairmen and to outline plans for the year's activities. Mr. Kenneth Kennedy presented the nominating committee's selections and the following people were elected by unanimous vote: Mrs. J. A. McBride, president; Mr. William Walton, vice-president; Marian E. Pope, secretary; Mr. L. T. McAuliffe, treasurer. Chairman of the standing committees are: Mrs. H. J. Carr, publicity; Mrs. Donald Costain, play reading; Mrs. Richard C. Bruner, entertainment; Mr. Clyde Emrick, stage and properties; Mr. William Franke, membership.

Mrs. McBride asked the membership and play reading committees to become immediately active so that some progress could be made before resumption of meetings in the fall. There was a general discussion of programs for the regular monthly meetings and Mrs. Bruner, chairman of the entertainment committee reported that plans would be made to have various guests or members discuss stage make-up, lighting, directing and scenery with the members frequently participating in short skits.

Marian Babbitt was asked to consider acting as stage director of the production to be given by the club. Plans were outlined for a social meeting to be held late in the summer so that new and prospective members might become acquainted with the other members and the purposes and plans of the new organization.

The Arlington Community Players give promise of being a very enjoyable means of relaxation and fun for anyone interested in amateur play production, and it will welcome all those who have such an interest in its membership.

Rev. & Mrs. Ellerbrake honored on anniversary

On Sunday, June 18, many relatives and friends of the Rev. and Mrs. J. H. Ellerbrake gathered at the St. Paul church, Barrington, to observe their golden wedding anniversary. As the guests were assembling, Miss Emma Walbaum delighted them with beautiful organ selections. The bride couple and two of the original attendants, the Rev. John Goebel of Kankakee and the Rev. George W. Goebel of Des Plaines entered the church at 3:30. The Rev. Armin Bizer of Northbrook, president of the Arlington Heights region presided. Dr. Louis W. Goebel, president of the Evangelical and Reformed church and cousin of the bride, gave a short address and in a most impressive and sincere manner performed the customary ceremony. Marian Heifers, granddaughter of the couple, sang "The Lord Is My Shepherd" by S. Little very beautifully accompanied by her mother, Mrs. B. F. Heifers.

The Rev. Bizer then gave representatives of numerous groups the opportunity to express their congratulations. Rev. John Goebel, the bride's oldest brother, extended best wishes in behalf of the relatives. Forty-four years of Rev. and Mrs. Ellerbrake's married life were spent in the two parishes of Arlington Heights and Hanover Township. The present ministers of these two churches, the Rev. Kampfenkel and the Rev. Nienkamp respectively represented their congregations and presented the bride couple with gifts of money.

OPEN THURSDAY AND SATURDAY EVENINGS

Summer festival at Des Plaines opens June 29

Plans are now nearing completion for staging another Summer

Festival in Des Plaines at Rand Park on June 29 to July 4, inclusive, according to Dr. C. L. Safford, chairman of the annual fun-fest for the Des Plaines American Legion Post 366. This six-day entertainment extravaganza will open next Thursday night and close on the Fourth of July with the drawing for the grand award, a 1941 Dodge luxury liner.

A galaxy of radio, stage and vaudeville stars have been promised to give free entertainment throughout the festival. A ferris wheel, an octopus and a merry-go-round will furnish rides for both young and old. The Maine Township high school concert band will be the headline attraction for the opening night. The Mel Tierney American Legion Drum and Bugle corps has also been invited to present an evening concert later in the week. Professional entertainers, furnished by the U. S. Treasury, will be on the agenda for Bond Night.

Commander Lee Van Arsdale has announced that there will be no admission to Rand Park during the summer festival and parking will be free.

by the Arlington Heights Health Center affiliated with The Tuberculosis Institute of Chicago and Cook County.

"The radio speaker announced that over 50,000 drafted men were rejected due to nutrition deficiency so I got to thinking about my own eating. This being away from home during lunch hour makes eating hours tough. Most of the time I just grab a bite in the drug store and gulp a few malteds in the meantime to keep me going. My weight is okay, but I have been below par lately. My friend, Jeanne, hasn't been feeling so well lately either. So we got together and decided to consult a nutrition expert and find out about this dope on eating business. You know, it's amazing the information that the nutritionist expert gave us. Of course, we were given some good reference material; and there is one for 25c, "Hidden Hungers in the Land of Plenty," that is put out by the National Maternal and Child Health Council, Washington, D. C. It is a swell pamphlet. Jeanne and I found out from our reading that a survey on diets was made two years ago, and can you imagine, one-third of the diets was rated poor. These diets were insufficient in milk, fruit, and leafy green vegetables—just the stuff Jeanne and I had been steering clear of. We found that 10% of the school children are malnourished.

"The symptoms of deficiency struck home. Want to know what they are?—here goes: 1. Mental and physical fatigue. 2. Anemia. 3. Digestive disturbances. 4. Emotional instability.

"Our nutrition expert told us that most people consume too much sugar. The result is digestive troubles and poor teeth. I, for one, am going to end some of my daily malteds, and instead I'll do a little apple-polishing and eat the apples.

"And did we ever get informed about foolish ideas people have about foods. You've heard how onions help you sleep, that fish is brain food (the poor fish), that nutrients last if food is cooked, that foods of certain types alkalize and purify the blood, that milk and oysters together form a poison. It's all the bunk.

"Do you know what we are drinking now instead of soft drinks—milk. After we found out we weren't getting enough of a most important mineral, calcium, Jeanne and I decided we gulp on milk if we felt that afternoon urge for a drink. You ought to try it. It's a swell refresher.

"In our reading we also found a list of protective food that the National Council of Nutrition says we should eat every day. Basic essentials are: One quart of milk, yellow and leafy vegetables (one raw and one cooked), one serving of potatoes and an egg, meat, two fruits (one citrus), one slice of bread at every meal, butter and other fats and water or some facsimile (4 to 6 glasses daily). Jeanne and I are doing our best to follow this and sure enough we are feeling better already."

Good! No dehydrated vegetables here

United States military and war services, are expected to use about 70 percent of the 1944-45 supply of dehydrated vegetables under WFA allocation for the year beginning July 1, 1944.

Slightly more than 246 million pounds of vegetables, it is expected, will be available during that year for allocation among the various claimants—armed services, civilian, lend-lease and liberated areas—approximately 40 percent more than in 1943-44. Because this production was expanded primarily to meet war needs and to conserve shipping space, more than 95 percent of the total allocation will be used by non-civilian claimants. Most of the U. S. civilian supply will go into soups.

If what you did for the war effort today is an easy thing to do, it isn't enough. We cannot hope to give as much as the boy who gives his life... but we can do our utmost!

For instance, if you haven't yet found yourself scheming and figuring on a way to buy extra War Bonds, it's a good sign you aren't buying enough!

When your neighbor calls on you during the 5th War Loan to ask if you'll increase your purchases, say "Yes"... even if it takes a lot of scheming and figuring afterward to pay for them.

That's the way our men are doing their part... in the Pacific, in Italy, in England. Ordered to attack, they do not first consult themselves to determine whether it's safe or convenient or comfortable. They're thinking of you at home. To protect you, they attack first... and figure out how to do it as they go.

Uncle Sam needs your dollars to finance this war and he needs them now! Not just the dollars you can spare but every dollar you can earn that you don't absolutely need for food, shelter, clothing and the operation of the farm.

War Bonds savings mean more to the average farmer or rancher than to almost anyone else. For they form a financial reserve indispensable for the profitable and efficient operation of his business. War Bonds are safe, they pay a good return, they're easy to buy. When they mature, they mean new machinery and equipment, new conveniences for the house, money for the children's schooling, funds for retirement.

The next time you pick up your paper or listen to the radio news, have a conference with yourself. "Am I doing as much as I can to help win this war? Am I matching what I can do with what the boys are doing over there? Am I investing every possible dollar in War Bonds today to make my future and my family's future more secure?"

Most of us haven't yet begun to do our best. Uncle Sam needs it now! BUY MORE THAN BEFORE in the 5th War Loan!

5 REASONS FOR INCREASING YOUR WAR BOND PURCHASES

1. The tempo of this war is hitting its highest point. Government expenditures for war are at the peak. MORE MONEY IS NEEDED... NOW!
2. In proportion to WHO HAS THE MOST MONEY, individuals are not buying their share of War Bonds. America must correct this situation.
3. War Bonds provide the farmer and rancher with the financial reserve he must have to survive the ordinary ups and downs of farming as a business.
4. Money will be needed urgently at a future date to replace and repair farm equipment, machinery, and buildings. War Bonds will provide it.
5. War Bonds are the safest investment in the world, return a good rate of interest, are easy and convenient to buy... from bank, post office, rural mail carrier or Production Credit Association.

No trees, just rain, fog, snow—that is Aleutians

John Annen returns home after 38 months

Home from the Aleutians after 38 months away from home, 26 of them in the Aleutians, is John Annen of Arlington Heights.

John entered the service in March of 1941. He reported to Camp Callan, California, then Ft. Cronkrite, California, and Camp Murray, Washington. 75 Annen then boarded a boat for the Aleutians.

"Anyone who wants the Aleutians can have them. No trees, no people, just wind, rain, snow, mountains, fog and rain. That's a one line description of the Aleutian islands. I was up there 26 months and I know."

"First arrived in the area in March of 1942. We went to our secret base, except the base had no quarters, runways, buildings, just nothing. We had to live in tents until we got the gunset huts put up, runways built and other facilities erected."

"There were never enough men, equipment, ships or arms. The Japs bombed Dutch Harbor just after we moved in. Our planes intercepted the enemy before they got to us, but they sure gave Dutch Harbor a going over."

"I was engaged in coast artillery, though most of my own time was in construction. I've spent three years of building things, and will probably spend more in the future. We did shoot at some Jap ships up there, including some submarines."

Out of combat

"Many people think we were lucky to be 'out of combat' in the Aleutians. However, we were in combat at first, and then had the monotony of waiting around for possible enemy fire. You can't realize just how quiet things are until you live with just 220 men for 26 months. At that, there was only one fist fight in that time, and that was the first two weeks we were there. Two fellows fought over some flapjacks we were having for breakfast."

"I had my camera with me and brought home 1500 pictures that I took, developed and printed, some of them colored. Taking pictures was about all you could do up there in your spare time, though there wasn't much of that. We all worked every day with a few days off now and then."

"Hunting is a favorite sport up there with Kodiak bears and foxes in abundance. Those bears stood 10 feet high on their rear legs, and weighed close to 2,000 pounds. There were also plenty of fish around, so many of the men would get their share. There was an active volcano about 25 miles away, but was too far to walk on a day off."

"We had a good many foxes for pets. In some ways they were better pets than dogs, for they would play longer. Some of them we acquired when they were just born, and had a lot of fun watching them grow. In one case a great dane dog had lost her pups, but immediately mothered two baby foxes.

Four USO shows

"We had four USO shows in two years. Type of entertainment was sort of cheap, and included no name entertainers. The troupe would fly in, stay a couple of hours to put on the show, and then leave immediately. We had movies every night in our own theatre."

"Mail was a welcome sight. We had daily air mail, sometimes two in one day. All mail was shipped by air, except papers and packages. Those took a month to reach us. Only radio programs we could get were short wave stations on the Pacific coast, and Tokyo. The Japs put on the best programs. They had very little advertising, compared to U. S. stations. At seven every morning we would listen to the Jap prisoner of war program, hearing US and Canadian soldiers. Then all during the day we would get music, featuring records of all popular orchestras at home. They would also give us their version of the news."

"Some of the boys tried swimming when we first arrived, but it was too cold, even in summer. One activity was to go to nearby mountain peaks and look at the scenery and take pictures, but even that grew tiresome in a hurry."

"Our quarters held a PX, ping pong and poker tables, theatre, reading and writing rooms, mess hall, utility buildings, shops and the hutments. My job was one of constructing any and everything, from bridges and roads, to tables, chairs and writing desks."

Old-timer

"There were a couple of towns nearby, but they had to be reached by boat. Thus we never got there. There was one old timer, though, that had lived near our station for 15 years. He was an ex-whaler living on a pension. He wanted a life of peace and was getting it, except for the last couple of years. However, he seemed to like to have us around."

"The entire ground is covered with a quack-grass moss called tundra. It is the only vegetation there. It grows on mounds that are anywhere from 6 inches to 3 feet high. These mounds resemble a plowed field, with the rows all due north and south. Only explanation is that the 100 mile an hour gales, always blowing north and south, whip them into that shape."

"Of course, everything is covered with snow in winter, but it never piles more than 18 inches deep. In fact, it never piles. Winds keep rain and snow blowing almost horizontally and there is nothing to hold the snow. Coldest temperature was about 35 below, but it felt much worse because of the wind."

John reports Virginia Beach, Virginia, at Camp Pendleton June 23. He doesn't know what's in store for him, but hopes to remain in the states for some time, where he can get used to people again.

LIFE WITH MOTHER

Dear Mary,
You should be highly flattered. . . not only Estelle, Dave and I missed your letter last week, but Davy and Louis! . . . you see, through the years of our writing, they have come to recognize your handwriting and stationery and can always pick out your letter when the mailman delivers it. . . they come running to me with it, shouting, "Here's your letter from Aunt Mary, will you read it? . . . to keep them from pestering me, I always do read it immediately. . . I know though, how things do crowd up on one these days until there comes a time when they finally overwhelm one! . . . I hope you'll get a breathing spell next week and write me all your news so we'll be "caught up" . . . the children talk of nothing but George and Edward's new ponies, and want to hear your latest reports of them. . .

What do you think? . . . I'm here all alone with the children for the first time in my life. . . Estelle has gone up to Wilmette to have dinner at cousin Jeanne's and later go to Barbara's graduation exercises at New Trier. . . Dave is also up at Wilmette on Coast Guard duty. . . I'm not a bit afraid at the moment because the neighbors have their lights on and are sitting on their front porches but I'm beginning to wonder how I'll feel when all the lights in the block go off and I have to go upstairs alone! . . . I think I'll take Davy into bed with me for company. . .

Last Sunday cousins Jeanne and Bob entertained for Barbara and Dave and I went up there. . . ALL the family were there and we had a very good time. . . I told cousin Elizabeth that you and I were still arguing about houses and furniture. . . she is still collecting antiques and is entirely on your side. . . she said with that quiet little laugh of hers, "You can say all you want about beauty of line and simplicity of design for your modern furniture but to me it lacks personality if one can say that a chair, table or desk can have a personality." . . .

I'm willing to admit that my grandmother Martha's bedroom suite that Estelle is using in her room has a personality. . . an irritating one to me! . . . in order to dust the top of the head of the bed, I have to use a step ladder. . . it has raised carvings and carvings cut into the surface. . . I have to use a ladder to dust the top of the dresser too, and that has designs cut all the way through the wood and they are too fine for my fingers to go through. . . the only way it could be properly dusted would be with a toothbrush! . . . I do like the marble tops on the dresser, washstand and table though. . . they can be washed with soap and water and I like that. . . an antique dealer from Peoria came down to Havana and offered Aunt Ruby a good price for the tiny marble topped table Mother uses for her bedside table. . . I often threaten to get in touch with him again when I'm cleaning that room. . . it actually only has four legs but they turn and twist so that it seems like you're dusting an octopus! . . . and they're connected by little pieces of wood that have sticking up or down which ever way the designer took a notion. . . the only way this delightful object can be properly cleaned is with a swab on the end of a toothpick! . . . Lackaday. . .

Today was Davy's last day at school. . . he got himself promoted to second grade and is feeling quite important! . . . it will be a relief to me not to have to dress each morning and take that long walk to school. . . but in a way, I'm going to miss it! . . . it never fails to interest me. . . it seems to me to be a typical bit of jumbled up Chicago. . . when we turn off our street, we are at the corner where Ridge Avenue and Pratt cross and where Damen Avenue comes in at an angle. . . there are the beautiful grounds of the golf course on one side and opposite in the angle, the inevitable gas station with its huge red pumps, gaudy signs and messy little office. . . we walk south on Damen. . . after the golf course, there are several little cottages. . . the beginning of our Luxembourg district. . . the grass and flowers about these places are something to see. . . then there is a big old farm house of the type I know you'd love. . . I do myself. . . white frame with a pillared porch that goes across the front and one whole side. . . it is set away back among huge old trees. . . next come two new and very fine apartment buildings! . . . and after that several blocks of vacant lots. . . these apartments, by the way, face the backs of some very old houses and the rear yards of a couple of Taverns! . . . not a particularly appetizing view. . . there is another block of cottages after the vacant property, then the apartments are in solid formation from there to Devon Avenue. . . we could do with some city planning, don't you think? . . .

Next Sunday night Davy is in a play in Mrs. Haberkorn's Summer Recital and it is to be down at Kimball Hall. . . I would like so much to have you come. . . you may bring the entire family or just those who might be interested. . . the small pupils are going to put on a demonstration this time, of her method of ear

To send fresh fruits by air in new test

The first long-range experiments in this country to explore the full possibilities of shipping perishables by air will be undertaken shortly by Wayne University, United Air Lines and the Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Company. It was announced jointly by the three organizations.

To set a post-war pattern, experimental airplane shipments of a wide range of perishable foods will be made from growing areas to a panel of produce experts at Detroit. All phases of marketing, from producer to consumer, will be studied carefully in relation to the new conditions arising from air transportation.

The three primary objectives of the experiments are: first, to explore the advantages claimed for the air shipment of perishables; second, to locate specific difficulties which must be overcome before the air shipment of perishables, especially fresh fruits and vegetables, can be placed on a commercial basis; and third, to pave the way for general acceptance of changes in marketing procedure which must accompany the development of air transport of foods.

The produce will be picked, packed, pre-cooled if necessary, and placed aboard planes for next morning delivery in Detroit. There a panel of experts, including Wayne representatives, A & P merchandisers, cargo experts of United Air Lines, home-making editors, and consumers will judge the taste, appearance and general condition of the produce.

The foods then will be tested for vitamin and sugar content, rate of deterioration, and weight loss in the Home Economics Laboratory at Wayne University. Similar experiments will be conducted simultaneously on the same items transported by conventional methods.

Products to be shipped will include strawberries and other varieties of berries, tomatoes, peaches, apricots, cherries, peas, asparagus, corn, pineapples, plums, lettuce, beans, Japanese persimmons and cantaloupes. Only sample lots will be handled, moving on a non-priority basis, it was stated.

War prisoners here live 'life of O'Reilly' in U.S.

Of more than 180,000 prisoners of war now held in over 100 permanent camps in the United States, 130,000 are Germans and 50,000 are Italians. Only 200 Japanese prisoners of war, taken captive on the high seas or in isolated outposts have been brought to this country.

German and Italian prisoners are here for three reasons: 1, it is more economical to bring them to this country than to ship food overseas for them; 2, it is dangerous to keep a large group of the enemy in the rear of fighting troops; and 3, American soldiers overseas may be better utilized other than in guarding prisoners of war.

Although Japan did not ratify the Geneva Convention, which governs most of the civilized nations in their internment of prisoners of war, this country treats Japanese with the same consideration given Germans and Italians. Japan agreed to follow the convention "so far as applicable" but has not permitted neutral observers to visit camps where Americans are held.

Japanese Considered Dead at Home

While Japanese prisoners in this country may be visited by representatives of the International Red Cross, the YMCA, and the protecting power, Spain, the Japanese prisoners are disinterested. The Japanese refused to send "capture cards" to their families and they want no reports made to their government. They have never received any mail or gifts from their homeland. In Japan, they are considered dead, and funeral services already have been held for them.

Italians and Germans, however, are eager for mail and parcels from home and talk freely with representatives of the International Red Cross, the YMCA, and their protecting power, Switzerland. Their "gripes" are the usual complaints of a soldier.

Most German prisoners are confident of a Nazi victory and they look upon American newspaper accounts of Allied victories either as propaganda or temporary setbacks.

Prisoner of war camps are like a few square miles of Germany or Italy transplanted to America. Occasionally a German or Italian soldier may be seen wearing all his insignia or decorations on his American uniform, on which are stamped the letters "P. W."

May Listen to Local Radio

Prisoners may listen to the radio, tuned only to local stations. They may subscribe to American newspapers, even foreign language papers, but none printed in their own countries. German communications as printed in the New York Times are translated and regularly put on bulletin boards.

There are libraries in all prisoner of war camps, and the PWs may own books passed by the camp censor. Nazi propaganda literature is not permitted, although many German language books are included in library collections. Scientific textbooks are favorites, but German classics are widely read. In one camp with 2,000 prisoners, 300 are studying English.

Teachers, some from leading German universities, doctors, opera singers, musicians, scientists and skilled technicians are among the prisoners. Teachers organize classes, musicians develop orchestral or choral groups and doctors assist in health programs.

Red Cross Life-line

The International Red Cross, the life-line between the PWs and their own people, operates seven ships that regularly cross the seas. From Philadelphia they head toward Marseille, with parcels and mail for Americans in prison camps, for other Allied soldiers in Axis hands and for the American civilian internees of Europe. On their return they bring parcels and mail to the German and Italian PWs here. These seven ships are the only ones in the world that may sail from one belligerent country to another.

The PW spokesman, elected by the prisoners, keeps close contact with the International Red Cross representative, but the visiting representatives for German and Italian prisoners—all of them Swiss—say "no serious complaints" have ever been made.

Early in February, 6,000 Italian PWs were put to work repairing salvaged clothing at the request of the Procurement Division, U. S. Treasury, which provided sewing machines formerly used on WPB sewing projects. Laundry equipment came from WPA, NYA and other government surplus stocks. Buttons, thread and other material came from WPA supplies on hand when WPB was liquidated. Repair centers were set up in mid-western areas and supervisors were sent to start the assembly lines.

Among the Italians several hundred experienced tailors were found who could train their fellow PWs in sewing. Material now being salvaged includes 80 million pounds of Army clothing and equipment. The PWs receive 80 cents a day—the amount they would receive for outside labor. Outside employers of prison labor pay the prevailing wage, the difference between that wage and 80 cents a day going to the U. S. Treasury.

DESPLAINES

Mrs. Margaret Imig, 728 Laurel Ave., DesPlaines, is one of three daughters who are left the $15,000 estate of their father, E. G. Roberts, who died in Oak Park June 1. He left his estate in charge of R. S. Imig, of DesPlaines, executor and trustee, to realize and manage and divide it between the daughters in due time.

Still more ice cream for us

To help assure full utilization of the exceptionally heavy milk output expected during June and July, W. A. Stolte, State Supervisor for the Office of Distribution, War Food Administration, recently announced amendment No. 3 to War Food Order No. 8, permitting manufacturers of frozen dairy foods to make more ice cream during these two months than previously announced.

Quotas limiting the amount of milk solids each manufacturer may use in June and July, 1944, have been raised to 85% for June, and 75% for July, according to Mr. Stolte. He estimated that the new liberalization of ice-cream quotas will result in more than a 30 million gallon increase over last summer's ice-cream production.

"The new June quota represents further increases from those announced earlier," Mr. Stolte added, "When quotas for May and June were set at 75% of base period production for those months, and the maximum milk solids content determining ice-cream 'richness,' was raised from 22 to 24 percent. This increased richness will also be permitted during July. In August it will drop back to a 22 percent limitation, and the original 65 percent quota on use of milk solids will also be restored."

SUES FOR DAMAGES

Rubin Meadow has sued Ralph N. Melin in Superior court for $10,000 damages as a result of the collision of their cars on May 3 at Main street and Crawford ave., Skokie. It is alleged that Melin failed to stop before crossing the other street, thus causing the accident in which Meadow claims to have been injured.

Crash-proof, light, 4-cyl. autos in post-war world

Although recent statements indicate an after-the-war automobile styled according to 1942 models, scientists looking deeply into the future predict remarkable changes that will make motoring safer, swifter, and infinitely more pleasant than ever before.

According to reports received by the Chicago Motor club and admittedly viewed on a distant horizon, the cars and highways of the future are seen as follows:

Cars crash-proof, rust-proof, and silent; auto bodies made either of light metals or structural plastics, cutting the average car weight approximately in half.

Four-cylinder engines which will equal in performance current types of eight-cylinder motors. Sealed liquid engine-cooling systems and air-cooled engines.

All-wave radio sets with automatic push-button tuners; also a screen-like dial on which red and green traffic lights are flashed by radio.

Fifty miles to the gallon through the use of high octane gasoline. Windows of transparent and shatter-proof plastic that will not steam, fog or frost.

Roofs of either transparent or translucent plastic. Tubeless tires and longer-life tires.

Synthetic rubber tires, each part of the tire constructed of the type of synthetic material best adapted to its special function.

Doors opened by push-button control. Radio-electronic devices to prevent collision.

Polaroid headlights and windshields to eliminate glare.

Air conditioning and cooling for the comfort of passengers.

Periscopic rear view vision for automobiles, buses and trucks. Special danger signal when another car gets too close.

Plastic upholstery which can be cleaned with soap and water.

Road surfaces which do not produce glare.

Television visible to the driver, but provided with an automatic cut-out switch which turns off the picture, leaving the sound, whenever the car is in motion; television for back-seat passengers at all times.

WAY TO BACK INVASION IS BUILD PLANES SAYS VET

Ex-Marine Praises Job at Douglas as Serving Country and Self

Chicago, June 19—No one knows better than a Leatherneck veteran how vital to our victory are the big transport airplanes used to carry weapons and men to the combat areas. That's why George McCue is now working as an engine mechanic in the big new Douglas Aircraft plant at Mannheim, Higgins and Devon. McCue, Marine Corps vet recently given a medical discharge, saw plenty of action on Midway under Jap attack and elsewhere in the Pacific.

"As long as I can't be out there with the Marines, this job at Douglas is where I want to be," McCue said today. "I couldn't live with myself at this crucial moment when our boys are giving their lives in France and on beach heads in the Pacific if I didn't do my part to the fullest. And there's no better way of doing it than to help turn out these giant Douglas planes which are the backbone of our drive to win the war."

No Experience Needed

"But there are a lot of reasons for liking a job here at Douglas beside the patriotic one," McCue added. "The work is interesting and very well-paid and I enjoy every minute of it. It's pleasant to be associated with congenial people and to have the use of brand new equipment and a brand new plant. Food in the plant cafeteria is excellent and inexpensive. Douglas has a real vacation-plan and money-saving group insurance. Recreational facilities are ideal—clubs, dances, parties and entertainment. I happened to have been a mechanic but no one needs previous experience to work at Douglas. You go through a training course and earn good wages while learning. If you want to serve your country and enjoy working in a well-paid job, I can recommend that you join me out here at Douglas," McCue concluded.

Easy to Apply

It's easy to apply for a well-paid job at Douglas Aircraft. There are branch offices at 4070 Milwaukee Ave. and at 2717½ Milwaukee Ave., open week days from 9:30 to 7 p.m. Or you can get information at any U. S. Employment office. Or, if convenient, come direct to the Douglas plant at Mannheim and Devon. Buses leave from Grand and Harlem, Belmont and 80th, Milwaukee and Devon, Irving Park and Narragansett, Milwaukee and Higgins, Diverser and Harlem, Addison and Cumberland, Higgins and Canfield, and Park Ridge or Des Plaines, Illinois—Adv.

Must keep up war production for invasion

Initial assault increases need for sustained flow of material

The invasion of Europe undoubtedly marks the beginning of an end to one phase of America's wartime economic life but does not, by a wide margin, mean that the overall pace of our war production will or can be lowered for months to come. While it can be taken for granted that industry has produced the arms and material needed for the long planned invasion, it is agreed by most authorities that an equally high production rate will have to be maintained until the surrender of Germany.

With Germany out of the picture it is anticipated that military demands upon industry will drop from 35 to 50 per cent. At that time the War Production Board, says Chairman Donald Nelson, will do everything possible to allow essential civilian production wherever it does not interfere with war production needed to lick Japan.

The fact that the invasion is actually in progress makes more urgent the completion of plans for reconversion from war to peace production. There are bound to be temporary employment disruptions with the cancellation of war con-

Victory produce

Some war plants now have "silence rooms"—no talking, reading or smoking—for rest periods to calm jangled nerves. . . . Summer resort owners, judging by early reservations, says this will be their biggest summer in history. . . . Backyard and victory gardens accounted for more than 40 per cent of the vegetables grown in the U. S. last year.

Invasion supplies

Recent shortage of many civilian supplies may be attributed to military demands of the forces of liberation. Examples are radio tubes and parts, gasoline and oil. In spite of a radio manufacturing output over 10 times as great as pre-war, military demands for radio tubes and repair parts have increased. This explains why civilians are finding it hard to get these items, the War Production Board says. Every military plane has radio equipment, some as much as $100,000 worth each. Ships, tanks and other mobile equipment also use radio equipment. A five-month supply of 100-octane aviation gasoline is required for each of the 11,000 planes backing up Allied liberation forces, the Petroleum Administration for War reports. Heavy and imperative demands for oil by General Eisenhower as early as last winter almost made New York, Boston, and Philadelphia the first indirect invasion casualties. Increased production by East Coast refineries, the "big inch" and "little big inch" pipelines, and emergency deliveries helped avert civilian shortages of oil and gas in the East.

D-day rules

The Germans had worked out several "D" day measures for the French civilian population. On the first day all men were to be called into centers for verification of their identities, civilian vehicles were not to be allowed to circulate and supply depots were to be occupied. After the first day civilians were to be authorized to circulate only with an armband and with hands folded behind their necks, under penalty of being immediately shot. All houses were to be searched, and persons not on census rolls were to be shot immediately.

Girl chemists

Six hundred -teen- age girls, chemical analysts, test the high explosives produced in Britain's shell-filling factories. Three years ago, school laboratories in all parts of the United Kingdom set up a three-months' course in explosive chemistry for girls who already had credits in science or mathematics and, today, two-thirds of the young chemists come direct from these schools.

War cats

The average Minnesota farmer is now working a record-breaking schedule of more than 70 hours per week. Surveys show, however, that he would like to cut this to about 50 to 60 hours per week. . . . The new Allison 3,000 horsepower airplane engine weighs less than one pound per horsepower. Even cats are doing their part in the war effort. They are being used in warehouses and other government buildings to keep mice and rats away from supplies of war materials.

Vegetables

With very liberal supplies of both cucumbers and tomatoes offered at Chicago fresh produce markets this week, June salads can be fresh, juicy, and vitamin-rich, the War Food Administration reports. Prices on cucumbers are lower than they have been in quite some time, but best quality tomatoes are holding up in price. Two other items in liberal supply that are recommended for the budget list are dry onions and Irish potatoes. Both of these new crop items are fairly perishable, so the housewife is advised to buy them in small quantities at frequent intervals and thus avoid spoilage.

Several homegrown items might well be featured this week by the homemaker whose budget is limited. Among them are leaf lettuce and Romaine, radishes, spinach, mustard greens, and green onions. Green beans are a fairly good buy, but supplies of celery are rather light and good quality stock is high in price. Cabbage and green peas are other moderately priced items.

The fruit counters are buzzing with activity these days, and there is variety such as has not been seen for many months. Fairly liberal supplies of watermelons are being shipped in, and prices are declining. The cantaloup season got underway during the past week or two and shipments are arriving daily from the west coast. Homemakers with liberal food allowances can obtain fresh berries—including raspberries, blueberries, and strawberries. California plums, cherries, and apricots, southern grown peaches, mangoes, pineapples, and bananas, as well as the fairly plentiful oranges and grapefruit, form part of the tempting array displayed at fruit counters. Prices, however, are rather high, for the most part, holding at or near ceiling levels.

400 an hour planes

Commercial planes may whiz across the continent at speeds of 400 miles an hour, according to Ralph S. Damon, vice-president of American Airlines. Aerodynamically, it is quite possible that 20 years from now our transport planes will cruise at speeds of today's combat plane, which are far in excess of that figure, he said. He spoke before a gathering of engineers of Aluminum Company of America, which, he said, "the people of America and the airplane companies can thank for its production record and its research, which gave this country the materials needed to produce superior planes." Declaring that "the engineers have had the world for a test lab" he said that, because of what they have learned, our airplanes have been constantly improved. He predicted that aluminum and magnesium alloys will speed the day when 3,000 and 4,000 horsepower engines are used on our larger planes.

New candy

Candy stores can't stock their counters with as much of or as great a variety of sweets these days because a good share of the confectionery industry's manufacturing capacity is being used to meet military needs. About 100,000,000 pounds of candy will be required for Army rations alone this year. According to Brig. Gen. J. W. Bryan, "every pound of candy sent to our troops is a pound of morale."

For the future, J. R. Maxwell of Stephen F. Whitman & Son, Inc., Philadelphia, holds out the promise of new types of candies to help expand retailers' and manufacturers' markets after the war. His company has already developed candies made of soybean, cottonseed and wheat protein flours. Progress in this direction will be cheered by farmers, too. Aids recommended by industry distribution experts to help candy retailers build better businesses after the war include more air-conditioned stores, advertising to emphasize the food value of candy and more extended use of vending machines.

Rubber boots

Ration certificates issued for purchase of men's rubber boots and rubber work shoes are now good indefinitely. . . . Candy production of more than 2½ billion pounds reached an all-time high in the U. S. last year, according to the Department of Commerce. . . . No large-scale resumption of bicycle production will be possible until after the war in Europe has been brought to a successful conclusion. . . . Carry-over of feed grains at the end of the present feeding year probably will be the smallest for any year since 1937. . . . A new type of cotton-gauze bandage, developed in a Department of Agriculture Laboratory, tends to fit and cling better than ordinary gauze and it allows greater freedom of movement in bandaged joints.

Aussie wheat

Australia's 1944 wheat goal of nine million bushels may not be reached this year because of bad weather and shortages of labor and fertilizer. Under Australia's wheat stabilization plan producers have been guaranteed minimum prices for several years. Last season 67 cents was guaranteed the grower for the first 3,000 bushels and 34 cents for the excess. The estimated 1943-44 crop will be 108 million bushels, compared with a pre-war average of 160 million bushels.

ARLINGTON HEIGHTS

The estate of Mrs. May Palmer, of Arlington Heights, who died in Elgin May 1, leaving $1,000, goes to her husband, Robert F. Palmer, of Arlington Heights, as she left no will.

Auto saver

In addition to having better tires on sale, service stations also may look forward to dispensing a "pint of likker" with every five or ten gallons of gasoline sold after the war. Scientists have discovered that a small quantity of alcohol and water injected into an engine's fuel system makes a low-grade gasoline perform as well as a higher-octane, higher priced fuel. They're putting the principal to work as a special horsepower booster for fast American fighter planes, using an "injection" device made by Thompson Products, Inc. Experimental installations have also been made in some 400 trucks and passenger automobiles. One test of a truck engine indicates a saving of $250 per 40,000 miles traveled by making it possible to use lower octane gas. Another test indicates that a passenger car owner who covers 10,000 miles a year could expect to save approximately $50.

War costs

The War Bonds bought during the Fifth War Loan will enable our Government to get more and better war equipment for its fighters than the bonds bought a year ago, according to a compilation of war equipment costs by the War Department. A heavy bomber, which a year ago cost $500,000, today costs half that much. A B-29 anti-aircraft gun formerly cost $25,000, now costs only $13,000. A year ago the Garand rifle cost $80. Today it costs $35. A few items, among them the good old army mule, have gone up in price. A year ago Uncle Sam paid $190 for an army mule. Today such a mule costs Uncle $225.

Lend lease

Total food shipments from the United States to lend-lease countries, May 31, 1941 to May 1, 1944, include about 12 billion pounds of dairy products, 5 billion pounds of meat, 2 billion pounds of eggs, 2 billion pounds of edible fats and oils, 799 million pounds of dried fruit, 949 million pounds of dry beans and peas, 514 million pounds of canned fish, 326 million pounds of canned vegetables and 643 million pounds of canned fruits and fruit juices, the Department of Agriculture announces.

Ground corn helps preserve moisture silage

Good-quality legume or grass silage may be made by adding ground corn as a preservative at the rate of approximately 150 pounds of ground shelled corn per ton of green forage or 200 pounds of corn and cob meal. The grain should be applied as the forage is run through the ensilage cutter, according to C. S. Rhode, professor of dairy husbandry extension, University of Illinois College of Agriculture. If care is taken to allow proper wilting, satisfactory silage may be made from legumes and grasses without the use of a preservative. The main difficulty in using this method is to determine just when the crop has wilted sufficiently to make good silage. The moisture content of the green forage should not be more than 65 to 68 per cent. Unless the moisture content is definitely known, it is best to rely on preservatives such as ground corn or molasses. "Legume or grass silage made when the forage is in the 'before' or early bloom stage is rich in protein, carotene and other vitamins. Cutting alfalfa for silage when 1/10 in bloom, clover approximately 1/2 in bloom, timothy, pre-bloom stage, and soybeans when the pods are formed, will make nutritious silage," Rhode said.

Cryolite is a stomach poison in good supply

The fluorines are a group of inorganic stomach poisons second in importance only to the arsenicals. At the present time cryolite is the leading fluorine compound. While the supplies of rotenone, pyrethrum and even some of the arsenicals are very short or cut entirely for private use, an abundance of cryolite is available. For this reason the government is asking us to use cryolite whenever possible. Insecticide companies are making every effort to have cryolite available in every city, town and village.

Cryolite, which is chemically sodium fluoaluminate, occurs naturally in Greenland. However, synthetic cryolite, which is a by-product of certain manufacturing processes, forms the bulk of our present supply. There is no chemical difference between the natural and the synthetic forms.

Since cryolite is a stomach poison, it may be used to replace the arsenicals to a very considerable degree. Although not so toxic as the arsenicals, it leaves a poisonous residue, hence it must not be applied to the edible portion of plants. It must not be used inter-mixed with arsenicals nor must it be used on plants previously sprayed with a soap mixture.

Since the use of cryolite is being urged by the government, it is highly desirable that farmers and victory gardeners become acquainted with it and know the names under which it is sold. Cryolite is now on sale under such names as Cryolite Dust, Kryocide, Kryolite and Alarco Cryolite.

Barium fluosulfate, which has been used under a trade name for several years, is closely related to cryolite. Fluorine is the killing agent in both compounds.

MORE MEAT, MORE MILK, MORE EGGS

'We have too many inflexible price controls'

"The basic cause of our failure to balance production with demand lies in the field of price control as now operated. Too many prices are controlled—at too many stages between producer and consumer." This statement was made by Dean H. P. Rusk of the University of Illinois College of Agriculture when asked to comment upon the present surplus egg disposal plan. "The more points are a process at which prices are fixed, the more opportunities there are for unsatisfactory relations and the fewer opportunities there are for normal economic factors to exert corrective influence. In the light of recent experience, it would seem advisable that where price controls appear necessary for the promotion of the war effort they be established as near the retail level as practicable, and some flexibility of intermediate prices be provided by competition."

We have surpluses of some farm products and deficits in others. For example, the War Food Administration announced May 30, 1944, that it was "to a limited extent, converting eggs into animal feed" because suitable cold storage space was inadequate to make it possible for the government to keep the government's pledge to support a minimum price to farmers. Terminal livestock markets have been flooded with hogs since the beginning of the winter movement, with the result that embargoes have been placed on shipments and farmers have suffered because of heavy carrying charges at terminal markets or unsold hogs and have taken heavy price discounts on "non-supported" weights. Lard has been used in the manufacture of soap. It is entirely possible that there will be a movement of range cattle to market next fall that will exceed slaughtering capacity.

On the opposite side of the ledger we have such a small supply of corn that special steps were taken to get enough corn marketed to keep wet-processors working, and livestock has been forced to market for lack of feed in areas that normally depend upon shipped-in feed grains.

"Before condemning the procedures under which we operate, we must ask ourselves if these developments are the unforeseeable and uncontrollable elements, such as unusual climatic or weather conditions or war developments. Or are they the results of basic weaknesses in our wartime price and production programs?"

"A succession of favorable crop years and weather conducive to heavy egg production have undoubtedly been factors contributing to over-production. Unanticipated developments in war needs and available shipping facilities may also have contributed to some surpluses, but they have not been the dominating influence," Dean Rusk said.

"In order to assure adequate amounts of food as well as bullets Congress established price floors through loans or purchase programs. This action recognizes the important influence of price as incentive to production, but it failed to take full account of an equally important economic principle that the prime moving forces both in adjustments of production and in distribution of supplies, are price relationships and that regulation of production calls for flexible, not fixed, relationships. As a result of this failure, the relationship between the price of feeds and livestock products favored too

George Kueker, Bensenville, has recently acquired a registered Holstein-Friesian heifer from the herd of F. W. Porep, Palatine. Change of ownership for this animal, Locust Lucia Canary Ormsby 2334207, has been officially recorded by The Holstein-Friesian Association of America, Brattleboro, Vt. The Association issued 11,429 registry and transfer certificates to Illinois breeders during 1943. Herbert Mayer, Palatine, Ill., has recently sold a registered Holstein-Friesian heifer, Shenley Bessie Echo 2350128, to Willis Hoke, Jonesboro, Ind., and a registered Holstein-Friesian bull, Shanley Inka Bessie 887914, to Albert Im-3, Fond du Lac, Wis.

rapid conversion of feeds to some animal products except perhaps for a short period at the very beginning of the support program. Some farm products have been produced in quantities so large that they must be disposed of at a loss to the government and devoted to an uneconomic use. More flexibility and care in the establishment of price ceilings and price supports would go a long way toward bringing about a balanced maximum production of food," Dean Rusk concluded.

Hogs better, eggs worse, says outlook

Holdover of hogs at Chicago set a new open market record of 30,000 Tuesday; 16,000 were held over at St. Louis. However, these were the only congested markets, and the general picture for the first two days of the week was the best for some time. The situation with steers is just the opposite from the hog situation. Receipts are moderate, the demand is good and a new high price of $17.60 was obtained Tuesday. This price was paid for steers from an Illinois Feedlot that weighed around 1,400 pounds. A lot of 42 heifers averaging 870 pounds brought $17.25, duplicating the 24-year high in this class.

A carload of cash wheat was sold on the open market at Chicago Monday which graded No. 1 hard and sold for $1.62 a bushel. This is the first time for several months that cash wheat has sold below the ceiling price at Chicago. The government wheat forecast of 1,034,785 bushels was even more optimistic than the private estimate quoted last week. In the absence of any widespread disease or insect infestations, the prospects for a bumper crop will be the dominant influence on prices.

Corn bookings of 415,000 bushels at Chicago Tuesday were the heaviest in several months, and it appeared that shipments from Illinois probably would increase. Instead of being unable to get enough corn to keep operating, some processors feel that the corn may come in so fast that finding storage space will be a problem. They hope that the farmers will sign the contracts and sell the corn on a to-arrive basis so that the marketings can be spread out a little.

The government has announced that there are 1,400 carloads—25 million dozens—of eggs for which no cold storage space can be found. Housewives all over the country have been urged to buy eggs and keep them in their refrigerators until they can use them.

Important provisions of the bill to extend price control to December 31, 1945, at its present stage include:

1. Subsidy payments will be banned after June 30, 1945, unless specifically authorized by congressional appropriation.

2. No government agency making agricultural payments shall impose any penalties or conditions in connection with those payments which are not specifically authorized by law.

3. Government loans on cotton, corn, wheat, rice, tobacco and peanuts shall be 95 percent of par-

Tennessee

From Memphis, Tennessee, comes word of Allen Harth of Arlington Heights.

"I wish to give you my present address so that I may continue to receive your paper. It should continue to stay the same for the next five months. So far I have had a hard time keeping contact with everyone. I have moved six times in about a year and a half.

"Your paper is really our only way of contacting old friends. I would certainly miss not having it.

"Awful hot down here in Memphis. Going to be here for the entire summer too. I'm now attending school learning to be an aviation radio gunner. Sure will be glad to get out of school and get out there where I can help get this thing over."

England

Suffering an accident in England is Francis Hinsberger of Arlington Heights. Details of the accident have not been given but Francis is believed to have sustained a broken arm and other injuries. He wrote that he "had a little accident but getting along fine."

The following letter was written by his commanding officer, Col. G. W. West.

"I am happy to report that when I visited Francis this afternoon in the hospital he was much improved. Of course, he was in a serious accident and it will take some time for him to recover.

"He was happy, cheerful and told me that he was receiving every care that was possible for him to have. I cannot tell you how delighted I am to be able to tell you this. As you probably know, Sgt. Hinsberger was with me in San Antonio as my chief clerk. I later took him to Camp Polk and we came over together.

"He is a fine young man and his loss will be felt for a long time in this section."

Hinsberger's address is T. Sgt. Francis Hinsberger, 36038796, 160 Sta. Hosp., APO 516 % PM, New York, N. Y.

Capt. Edwin L. Stevens of Mt. Prospect participated in the sixteenth two-day orientation program in the European Theater of Operations for Army Chaplains newly arrived in England which was recently conducted by the Office of the Chief Chaplain at a Services of Supply Headquarters in England.

Another large group of Chaplains was schooled with lectures and motion pictures introducing them to the European Theater of Operations, acquainting them with American and Allied soldiers poised for the liberation of Europe within the Theater, and revealing problems to be faced in guiding these men.

Topics dealt with during the session included the work of the Chaplain in battle which was presented to the group by two Chaplains with combat experience.

In addition, general material such as the responsibilities of Chaplains, pastoral duties, relationship with the men, organization of British forces, military structure and channels, geography of the European Theater and security precautions were also covered.

Now an instructor in England is James Abernathy of Roselle. Jim, it will be remembered, is the man who recently escaped death by inches when he was propeller of the bomber he was piloting back from Germany flew off, almost hitting him.

Jim is a captain now, and has the Air Medal with 10 oak leaf clusters. He has also been awarded the Distinguished Flying Cross. When Capt. Abernathy left his ship to be an instructor it was the first time any of his original crew members had left.

It happened here

The Quieted Heart

Quiet as still waters of a hid pool
With waterlilies mirrored, white and cool;
As the lost moonbeam on a mossy floor
Where the shy fawn rests and fears no more;
Or as the folded wing of a wood bird
When no least fern or leaf is stirred;
As the white cloud in azure space,
Drifting, yet never out of place;
Quiet as rose petals on the mantle there,
Their fragrance fading on the languid air;
Quiet as one whose storm tossed will Yields to the Master's, "Peace, be still."

The kindergartners, under their own inspiration, decided to make soldiers' tents out of their cut-out papers; imagination afloat, they reversed the sides and drew soldiers, coats and so forth on the inner flaps; following this, they began covering the walls with flowers.

"But soldiers do not have flowers, do they?" asked the watcher. "We know that," answered the artists, scornfully, "this is wallpaper."

England most like U.S. writes 'foot slogger'

Writing from England this week is Herbert Struck of Bensenville. "Hello back home. It has been quite some time since you heard from me. I believe the last time we corresponded I was in Sicily. Since then I have traveled many miles. I left Sicily in November, and landed here in England Thanksgiving day.

It sure was a wonderful feeling to be in civilization again, at least a place you could speak and understand people. We missed our Thanksgiving dinner on Thanksgiving day, but had a delicious dinner two days later.

The climatic conditions here in England were quite hard to get used to as it is cold, rainy, sun shining. I've had a cold my whole stay here. However, we have had quite an enjoyable stay here. That however is due to the fact that this country is as close to ours. I must truthfully say that England is the best country and most modernized I have visited in my 20 months overseas. Of course it is hard to picture war time England in comparison to living conditions here in peace time, both socially and industrially. The land is so populated with both Canadian and U. S. troops, plus all the supplies and equipment, that without the barrage balloons the island would sink.

The country site is very picturesque. The town I'm stationed in is down in a valley and at one of the park hill sides I can look down and see the whole city. I like to see the little farms over here. Their equipment is not near as modernized as ours in the states and agriculture isn't carried on as extensively as it is in the states. However, every inch of soil over here is utilized to its greatest capacity and I sure do get a kick out of the victory gardens. I wonder how they compare with ours at home.

The people on the home front are really behind the War Effort here in England as the production of war materials never ceases, whether it be night or day. I can imagine the wonderful job being done back home. The people here work from 12 to 14 hours a day, besides belonging to home guard units, national fire service and many other organizations.

"Food and clothing are rationed closely, but the British have learned to be so very conservative that they manage fairly well. Have visited several families here, although most homes are very simple they are so homelike that I often think I'm at home back in B'ville. Most families are so congenial, that when you do visit them they probably do without various ration for the coming week.

"As far as entertainment and the social life of a soldier, it is limited to a great extent due to the many troops stationed here. We have occasional dances, with one of the bands from the division playing, at which time refreshments are served and believe me the refreshments are a great attraction to most of the girls. Main source of entertainment however is the Pub or Tavern as called in the States. Here dart tournaments are held. It is quite an interesting game once you become acquainted with it.

"The beer isn't too good, being wartime. Occasionally we can obtain a drink of whiskey or gin which is quite a treat for most soldiers. But as far as enjoying (Advertisement) an evening like one would do in the States, it is impossible, due to the congestion of troops and last, but not least, the blackout.

"Have visited most of the traditional places here, Westminster Abbey, Buckingham Palace, several museums, cathedrals, etc. London is a city to see with the subway, various parks, show houses, dance halls.

"The currency was a bit hard to get accustomed to at first. In my 20 months overseas I have handled three different country's money. But it is as easy for me now as the American dollar. Pound equals approximately $4.00 in the States. It lasts just about as long as a dollar in the States.

"The boys over here in England are waiting for D-Day and we will all be in there pitching in our final effort to eliminate Hitlerism. All we ask from you people at home is a little harder work, a little more patience and a little more consideration for the 'foot soldiers'. Write your sons and daughters just a little often, as my greatest morale builder is a letter from home."

New Guinea

From New Guinea comes word from Fred Etteldorf, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Etteldorf of Palatine. Fred writes:

"Well, how is everything at home? I hope fine. I guess you would like to know how I am. Well, I am getting along all right. Just returned from a long trip out at sea. We are doing some unpleasant work, meaning the Japs.

"I have picked up some Jap souvenirs that I will send home one of these days. Some of the things are a piece of a Jap parachute. This particular piece comes from the bag that holds the chute. Then a piece of pure silk. Also a part of a Jap Zero. I made a ring out of a piece of the Zero.

"Not so long ago I made Seaman First Class. There isn't much to say about that. I had to fix some radio equipment on our Flag Ship. It took me exactly five hours to fix. And by the way, I'm not going to be a radio man any more. Instead, I am striking for radio technician. That means if anything goes wrong with any of our radio equipment, I have to fix it. And, of course, I check radio equipment all the time, to see that it is in trim shape.

"Oh yes, come to think of it, I have been in another invasion. This makes my fourth one. That puts four gold stars on my South West Pacific bar. When I get back I will look like an admiral.

"Have met two fellows out here that I didn't know. They are from Arlington Heights and Barrington. I think you know Edward Doyle. He is from Palatine. Then one afternoon I went on the beach and found this fellow from Barrington. He is a lieutenant in the army.

"I don't think I told you about seeing Gen. MacArthur. I saw him at the most unexpected time. I can't tell you where or how.

"I don't remember if I told you or not, but I won't be home this Christmas."

His address is Fred C. Etteldorf S 1/c, U. S. S. L. S. T. 454, % FPO, San Francisco, California.
